

Waldorf Technik again in the Top 100-Innovators

01/07/2010

The successful special machine manufacturer has once again managed to secure the renowned “Top 100” award, which is annually awarded to the most innovative medium sized businesses.

In Engen the Management as well as the 96 employees of Waldorf Technik are happy to have mastered all the barriers to be approved for the “Top 100- seal of quality” for the second time.

The cross-sectoral competition carefully examines and judges medium sized companies on innovative management. Therefore, the most imaginative and those who have the ability to transfer their imagination into success stories are determined and awarded. The first place winner will receive the title “Innovator of the year”. The Top Innovators of the year 2010 will be announced once again by Lothar Späth, the former President of the State of Baden-Württemberg.

To comply with the rising demands for saver, faster and more productive manufacturing processes Waldorf Technik GmbH & Co. KG, has replied with innovative engineering. Waldorf Technik plans, develops, constructs, produces and installs fully automatic automation solutions. Their efficiency is acknowledged worldwide.

Their innovative methods have developed products such as handling and packaging systems for products in the medical, pharmaceutical, and cosmetic industries, each project being highly customised. The close co-operation with our clients and our high tech clean room technology make the difference. Waldorf Technik also excels in the production of fully automatic production systems for food packaging, health care and other premium consumer products with extreme high demands.

The Engen based firm works closely with other plastic processing machine manufacturers, universities and excellent tool manufacturers. Wolfgang Czizegg, CEO of the Waldorf Technik explains: “Every machine is customized specifically for each client and product. The machines are constructed with CAD and pretested per computer simulation. After the machines have met the high standards of the Waldorf teams, they are installed and re-tested at the customer’s site by Waldorf professionals. This method works extremely well. The positive results speak for themselves. It is important for us to see beyond our own horizon and to know the exact nature of business of our clients in detail. This way our solutions meet the client’s exact needs and creates a higher value.
